CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE: The same care and precautions will be taken for the safe custody of this deposit as for the safe custody of items within the museum's permanent collection. The Florida Museum, though, can not accept liability for loss of, or damage to, or deterioration in, the item(s) described above due to the negligence on the part of itself or its staff.

In case of item[s] being left for examination, the depositor is responsible for collecting the item[s] described above by the agreed return date. In the event of the item[s] not being collected by the depositor, the museum reserves the right to dispose of the item[s] after they have been in its possession for not less than three [3] months. Concerning loans to the Florida Museum, it may be agreed that the museum will return the object by the return date.

INQUIRIES: The Florida Museum or its staff cannot accept any responsibility for an opinion that may be expressed on items submitted for examination. Opinions may be given to the owner of item or to the representative of the owner. A staff member of the museum is not authorized to give valuations, to assist in the disposal of private property or to express opinions regarding the merits of business firms.

ACQUISITIONS: In the case of an acquisition by the Florida Museum, the owner (or depositor acting on behalf of the owner) transfers absolute ownership of the group specified above to the museum, without conditions. This form is invalid for tax purposes.
